Managing Remote Teams

Note-Taking Guide

Presented by IMA Leadership Academy

TODAY'S AGENDA

1. Introduction
2. Are You Ready to Manage a Remote Team?
3. Overcoming the Challenges of Managing Remote Teams
4. Tips and Techniques for Being an Effective Remote Manager
5. Close

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

After this session, you will be able to:

- Define remote work
- Identify the challenges and opportunities of managing a geographically disbursed team
- Assess your readiness to manage a remote team
- Describe tips and techniques for effectively managing a remote team

REFLECTION

1. What experience have you had with working remotely?

How did you feel about working remotely?

2. What characteristics make a good remote manager?

DEFINITION OF REMOTE WORK

A group of professionals working together to serve a common purpose while being geographically dispersed across regions, states/provinces, and/or countries.

A dispersed team generally reports to the same organization and manager, and is jointly responsible for achieving a set of goals and objectives.

UNDERSTANDING THE BENEFITS

- Working with top professionals from anywhere
- Attracting employees and partners who might not otherwise consider your company
- Focusing more on results than on administrative tasks and meetings
- Happier employees who enjoy work flexibility while developing themselves professionally
- Reduced costs and burdensome office policies and conflicts

Source: See Bibliography [6,23,24]

BASIC REQUIREMENTS FOR SUCCESSFUL REMOTE WORKING

- Specific goals and KPIs
- Good collaborative practices
- Videoconferencing capabilities
- A variety of communication tools
- Remote access tools
- A focus on completing tasks and hitting deadlines rather than on hours worked

LEADERSHIP STYLES THAT WORK REMOTELY

Transformational	Transactional	Situational
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Supportive and nurturing • Aims to inspire and motivate • Values the identity of the individual while building a strong team identity • Finds the purpose behind the work 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Focused on goals and outputs • Delivers efficiently and with quality • Getting things done • Not effective for innovation and change • Effective for refining existing processes and helping to be more efficient 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Adapts to what the situation requires • Requires a high level of adaptability and flexibility • Requires the ability to quickly analyze a situation and apply the correct approach

SELF-ASSESSMENT

ARE YOU READY TO MANAGE A REMOTE TEAM?

Instructions: For the 10 statements below, rate yourself on a scale of 1 to 5 where 1 means that the statement does NOT describe you at all and 5 means that it describes you completely.

1. I am capable of developing team members even at a distance.

2. I am comfortable with team members working independently.

3. I have specific goals for the team and for each individual.

4. I have strong collaborative processes in place already.

5. The organization has good conferencing capabilities, and I am comfortable using them.

6. The organization has remote access tools, and I am comfortable using them.

7. I am focused on getting things done.

8. I like to help team members find the purpose behind their work.

9. I can quickly analyze a situation and adapt my approach accordingly.

10. I am comfortable using a variety of communication tools—phone, email, chat, and social media.

The more statements that fully describe you, the more ready you are to lead a remote team. You do not, however, need to have all 5's. If the majority of the statements are 4's and 5's, with maybe one or two as low as 3, you're probably pretty able to manage a team while further developing your abilities.

Areas that I can develop to be a better leader of a remote team:

THE CHALLENGES OF LEADING REMOTELY

- Lack of face-to-face time
- Lack of access to information
- Social isolation
- Distractions at home
- Communication
- Varying time zones

Source: See Bibliography [3,11,14]

OVERCOMING THE LACK OF FACE-TO-FACE TIME

- Establish regular check-ins
- Provide several different communication technology options
- Establish “rules of engagement”

Source: See Bibliography [14]

OVERCOMING THE LACK OF ACCESS TO INFORMATION

- Establish shared storage
- Establish “rules of engagement”
- Map out sources of information

Source: See Bibliography [14]

OVERCOMING SOCIAL ISOLATION

- Establish regular check-ins
- Provide opportunities for remote social interactions
- Offer encouragement and emotional support

Source: See Bibliography [14]

OVERCOMING DISTRACTIONS AT HOME

- Provide guidelines for establishing a good remote workplace
- Encourage mutual support and interactions to overcome distractions
- Be patient

Source: See Bibliography [14]

OVERCOMING COMMUNICATION HURDLES

- Make a variety of communication technologies available
- Establish regular, scheduled check-ins
- Establish “rules of engagement”

ACTION PLAN

1. Go back and review your self-assessment that we completed near the beginning of the session on your readiness to manage a remote team.
 - Are there any adjustments you should make to your ratings upon further consideration?
 - Is there anything you would add or change to the areas you can develop?

2. For each of the three major topics from this webinar, what is one thing you can do in the next week and another in the next month to be a better manager of a remote team?

Readiness to manage a remote team	Overcoming the challenges of managing remotely	Being an effective remote manager
